LL. GEORGE IS PRESS TARGET ON HIS PLANS TO AID LABOR

Mere Palliative Attempt To Evade Coming Storm Is Ch rge

HUGE SUM ASKED

£20,000,000 To Be Added To Britain's Debts If Scheme Is Approved

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 20.—Mr. Lloyd George's speech on unemployment in the House of Commons yesterday calls forth from the newspapers a measure of praise as regards his presentation of a difficult case but the actual proposals are the subject of criticism.

The Times commends the extension of the Export Credit scheme. It considers the most serious defect of the scheme is that it tends to increase taxation without offering the country any prospect of immediate relief from its crushing fiscal burdens.

The Morning Post declares that Mr. Lloyd George proposes to remedy the evil of unemployment by continuing in principle the very policy which largely produced unemployment.

The Daily Mail states that the scheme is a palliative but not a cure.

The Daily News considers that the scheme is not inspired by a broad policy but is merely a timid attempt to evade the coming storm.

The Daily Herald bluntly describes the proposals as bluff and adds that the unemployed cannot be fed on bluff.

The Daily Chronicle and the Daily Telegraph support the scheme.

HUGE FUND NEEDED

London, Oct. 19.—Mr. Lloyd George, in his speech on unemployment in the House of Commons today, dwelt on the importance of reviving trade. He said we had to convert the world's need of goods into a demand and the demand into payment.

He announced that the Government's export credit scheme would be amended, the Government guaranteeing 100 percent instead of 85 percent and that a special advisory commission would fix the maximum to which each firm would be permitted to trade. That would enable business in textile fabrics to be done abroad.

The Prime Minister announced that Mr. Winston Churchill had arranged to raise about £20,000,000 upon the credit of the British Colonies for purposes of development of railways and utility works which would appreciably affect the engineering trades of Britain. He pointed out that orders were tarrying because the cost of production and the cost of raising capital were both excessive.

GRANT FOR FAMILIES

The Government proposed guaranteeing Colonial loans, providing the expenditure promoted employment in the United Kingdom. A fund, contributed jointly by workers, masters, and the State, would be established for six months from which the unemployed already receiving benefit, would receive an additional grant for their families.

Mr. Lloyd George, in conclusion, declared that trade recovery was the real remedy for unemployment. That did not depend on the Government which was compelled to economise ruthlessly. He emphasised that in spite of her debt of £8,000,000,000, Britain was paying her way and was not concealing her deficiencies by printing paper money. Her courage would be rewarded. The Prime Minister appealed to masters and workers to compose their differences, otherwise there would be no wages.

BILLS ARE PRESENTED

London, Oct. 19.—Two Government Bills, dealing with unemployment, were formally introduced into the House of Commons today by Mr. Macnamara, the Minister of Labor, namely, a bill temporarily providing for the payment of grants to unemployed workers and towards the maintenance of their families and suspending the operation of Section 27 of the Unemployment Insurance Act and also a bill authorising during a limited period the provision of poor relief to destitute able-bodied men, unemployed in Scotland, and extending the borrowing powers of Parish Councils.

Can She Make Japanese Grow Taller?

The Japanese think that the kind of milk diet, water, soil and vegetation which produce perfect stock will increase the stature of the Emperor's subjects.

CABINET OF GERMANY IS OUT; CAUSE IS SILESIA

Poles Will Comply And League May Aid Them On Frontier Line

(Special To The China Press)

Paris, Oct. 19.—It is announced that the German Cabinet has resigned because of the decision of the Council of the League of Nations regarding the Silesia question.

This action was foreshadowed in the German protests to the League just before the decision was announced that stripped of Silesia's coal resources, Germany would be unable to meet her commitments in the indemnities. Despite that the decision divided the mines between Poland and Germany, the involved transportation and mining difficulties were deemed unsuperable and the decision to resign was made by the Cabinet.

POLES WILL COMPLY
(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 19.—It is learned that the Polish Government has given an assurance that it will do its utmost to ensure the carrying out of the League of Nations' decision with regard to Upper Silesia.

It is believed that this will have a calming effect on Germany. It is known that Germany has been communicating with Poland with regard to the settlement.

It is hinted that, if either party does not accept the decision, the Supreme Council may reconsider the frontier in favor of the accepting party but it is confidently hoped that Germany will unreservedly accept.

SILESIA NOTE DRAFTED

Paris, Oct. 19.—The Conference of Ambassadors met today at the Quai d'Orsay. M. Jules Cambon (France), President, Lord Hardinge (Great Britain), Mr. Myron Herrick (United States), Count Bonin-Longare (Italy) and Viscount Ishii (Japan) were present.

The Conference agreed on the procedure to be adopted with regard to the notification to the Polish and German Governments of the Allied decisions on Upper Silesia.

The afternoon sitting was occupied with the definitive drafting of the document to be sent to Warsaw and Berlin, which comprises both the delimitation of the frontier and the stipulations concerning the continuity of the economic situation in the industrial districts.

These latter stipulations are recommended by the League of Nations as the basis of an agreement between Germany and Poland.

OFFICERS OF BANQUE ARE EXONERATED BY EXAMINER

Broke Companies' Laws In Effort To Get More Capital

PAID OWN CASH

Managers Not Criminally Liable. Personally Says M. Doyen

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 19.—The Daily Telegraph's Paris correspondent states with regard to the affair of the Banque Industrielle de Chine that the report of the financial expert, M. Doyen, sets aside the accusation of alloting sham dividends and says that the profits of the Bank in 1919 allowed the payment of the dividend declared, although it might have been more prudent to have increased the reserve fund.

With regard to the increasing of the capital the report draws attention to certain subscriptions which were obtained only by making advances of funds and says that the Administrators reimbursed with their own cash the 500.000 francs, forming these irregular subscriptions. This is an infraction of the Companies Law.

The charge of breach of trust is said to be only incidental to the failure of the bank, for example, the case of money transfers from branch offices in the Far East to Paris, which it had not been possible to collect, or the buying orders, received by the Bank's foreign agencies which could not be executed by the Paris head office, owing to lack of funds.

It seems, therefore, according to M. Doyen, that no personal criminal offense can be charged against any member of the former or present management of the Bank.

CHINA STANDS PAT ON REPLY TO JAPANESE ON SHANTUNG

Even In Face Of Nippon's Ultimatum Cabinet Is Obdurate

(Staff Wire To The China Press)

Peking, Oct. 20.—Japan's latest proposals concerning Shantung contained in yesterday's memorandum was the subject of discussion by the cabinet today.

It was decided that China will maintain the stand taken in the memorandum of October 5 as it was held that the grounds of the comments on China's memorandum communicated yesterday by Japan are not convincing.

Tokio, it is stated, is sending an official English version of the latest Japanese memorandum for publication in China.

REPORT ULTIMATUM
(Staff Wire To The China Press)

Peking, Oct. 20.—Reports are current today that the Japanese Minister, Mr. Obata, on behalf of his Government, has handed a memorandum to the Waichaopu which carries an ultimatum that China can get Shantung returned by no means other than direct negotiation.

The memorandum was handed to Dr. W. W. Yen, Minister for Foreign Affairs yesterday afternoon.

GET JAPAN'S REPLY
(Staff Wire To The China Press)

Peking, Oct. 20.—The Japanese legation has received Tokio's instructions regarding China's reply to the Japanese note on Shantung, containing a counter-reply to be transmitted to the Chinese Foreign office.

The contents of the counter-reply have not been divulged, but Japan apparently is inclined to regard itself as already in negotiation with China over Shantung. Her communication is believed to be in pursuit of this policy and merely furthers the explanation of Japan's position as a commentary on China's expressed position

Despite Delay In New, Part Of Old Ships To Be Put Away

(Special To The China Press)

San Francisco, October 19.—Before starting for the Washington Conference today, Viscount Hata, head of the Japanese delegation, made statements, designed he said, to correct misunderstandings regarding Japan's naval plans.

He declared that Japan was not rushing its new dreadnoughts and other navy craft to completion but, on the contrary was far behind the naval program that had been laid down. He said:

"Japan's naval armaments must be cut regardless of how the Washington conference turns out. The Japanese delegates are going to the conference with a sincere desire to see a strong program for the lightening of armaments decided upon.

"Warships that are being launched now as part of the program formulated some time ago not only will reduce appropriations for next year, but put our second squadron out of commission next December. This squadron comprises three cruisers and three flotillas of destroyers.

"The exact amount of the curtailment for 1922 has not yet been decided. Much depends upon the outcome of the conference. We hope the nations will decide upon a program that will enable us to make some worth while retrenchments."

Sightless Harvard Grad To Teach Blind In China

ROBERT Pruitt was stricken blind on his tenth birthday while at play with a number of Chinese schoolboys in the American Mission Compound at Hwanghsien, Shantong Province, where he was born. A blow on the head produced paralysis of the optic nerves. That was thirteen years ago. Today, as a bachelor of arts, of Harvard, where he was graduated recently, Mr. Pruitt is returning to China with a plan to establish a school for the blind in connection with the Chinese College at Hwanghsien. His parents, Dr. and Mrs. C. W. Pruitt, formerly of Youngstown, Ohio, have been stationed in Hwanghsien for many years.

Paci Tells Of New Music He Will Play This Winter

By Elsie McCormick

"Fifteen years ago, I was a brass band for the Shanghai Volunteer Corps, and now look at me!"

If there was only some kind of a musical Salvation Army where orchestras could stand up and admit their past, the Shanghai Municipal Orchestra would undoubtedly win the largest number of hallelujahs. From the humble duty of blowing typhoons through brass cornucopias while S. V. C. rookies tried to distinguish the port foot from the one on starboard to the rendering of chamber music so modern that it has not yet even been printed is a considerable step. The scenery of the intervening years is filled in by the introduction of stringed instruments at the behest of the Germans, who soon composed the band's total personnel, an interregnum while the Germans played a different kind of music, and Mario Paci.

Especially Mario Paci. Since becoming conductor of the orchestra a little over two years ago, Mr. Paci steadily brought up its level until its exclusively brass band days seemed as remote as grandpa in the steerage does to many a resident of Riverside Drive. Now, equipped with new music and three distinguished soloists, Paci has returned from Europe, determined to put Shanghai on the musical map with a splash of symphony that will make other Far Eastern cities look like institutions for the deaf.

HAS NEW MUSIC

"I have brought to Shanghai the most complete library of ultra-modern works to be found almost anywhere in the world," Mr. Paci told us yesterday. "In Europe I found that the new school fathered by Debussy and Ravel has become absolutely paramount. The old classical laws are ignored and the art of music is being completely revolutionised. It is the purpose of the modern composer to paint a picture by means of sounds. He cares nothing about building a musical structure composed of certain fixed parts, he is interested only in giving free rein to phantasy and producing a picture by means of notes. In his Rhapsodie Espagnol, Ravel presents no theme or melody, but he gives us the sunlight of Spain, the beauty of her gardens, and the joyous hearts of her people."

We didn't ask any questions at this point, as the only impressionistic music we know anything about is the little piece concerning the lion, the lamb, and the running brook, plus the three dates in the tree. It is a popular number in amateur vaudeville shows and parties where stunts are in order, but we doubt if it will be produced by Mr. Paci's orchestra.

When we finally inquired just what chance the human voice will have to climb after a composer in his lawless leaps from crag to crag, Mr. Paci explained that the voice is now regarded merely as a new instrument in an orchestra.

VOICE JUST INSTRUMENT

"No longer is it true that the voice is everything and the orchestra a mere accompaniment," Mr. Paci said. "The newer symphonic compositions put the voice on the level with any other instrument and arrange its part accordingly."

When we asked what effect the new system would have on grand opera, Mr. Paci replied by a skyward lift of the shoulders.

"Grand opera is not real music," said the Shanghai maestro, making us think with regret of the long climbs we took to the Family Circle, just

Canton Drops Part Of Macao Demands; Suspends Others

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Hongkong, Oct. 20.—In view of the Portuguese refusal to apologise to the Canton Government and to punish the offenders in the recent fracas, the Canton Government has decided again to press for satisfaction by diplomatic measures.

The Canton Government is suspending its demand of Portuguese recognition of Canton's control of half the waters of the Inner Harbor pending the final settlement of the delimitation question.

The Canton Government has also decided not to enforce the demand for the prohibition of gambling in Macao, agreeing that this is an internal matter for Macao and should be dropped.

The mysterious explosion wrecked the bathroom and damaged the bedroom, fragments of the bomb being deeply indented into the steel wardrobe cabinet in the former.

TLS. 103,000 NEW FIGURE IN DRIVE FOR SCHOOL FUND

Gain Of Tls. 14,000 Was Recorded Yesterday By Leaders

'HUNT' IS ENDED

Miss Carolyn Doremus Is Winner; Gives The $100 To School

The total in the American School drive to raise Tls. 150,000 for the new expansion plan was Tls. 103,181 when the offices closed last evening. This is a gain of Tls. 14,134 over the previous day's figures and at the rate subscriptions are coming in, the campaign leaders are highly optimistic of the goal being reached within the time set.

The feature of the campaign yesterday was the culmination of THE EVENING STAR "Treasure Hunt" which came to a lively and picturesque conclusion at 5 p.m. on the site of the proposed new school out in the French Concession.

CAROLYN DOREMUS WINS

The lucky prospector—only in this instance it happened to be a prospectress—whose claim was staked closest to the planted prize was little Miss Carolyn Doremus, ten-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Doremus and a pupil in the fourth grade at the American School.

Little Miss Doremus was probably the last of the several hundred school children joining in the hunt to get her claim staked and the element of luck, which has loomed so large in the gentle art of prospecting ever since the g. a. of p. was invented, figured prominently in her "strike."

As mentioned, the hunt was participated in by several hundred youngsters, and all were on hand yesterday afternoon well ahead of the time set for the disclosure of the treasure's lurking place. The site of the new school had a porcupine finish of bright new claim stakes, which bristled over its entire extent. Youngsters with an anticipatory gleam in their eyes swarmed over the grounds, while a good sized crowd of parents and campaign officials stood by to watch the proceedings.

IN THE NICK OF TIME

As Principal W. W. Bartlett, of the American School, raised his hand a few seconds before 5 o'clock to make his final announcement regarding the search, little Miss Doremus, with her stakes still under her arm, was pursuing a South-Southeasterly course at the fringe of the grounds, following a private hunch that this century of shining coins was hiding out in a small Chinese garden abutting on the school property.

"When the clock strikes five," Mr. Bartlett was saying, "no more claims can be staked—"

Miss Doremus saw that she couldn't reach the spot she had in mind before the time elapsed. So she hastily drove the three splinters into the ground she happened to be standing on.

With a wake like the Pied Piper's the school principal led the way across the field to reveal the hiding place of the hundred, and, lo and behold, the place was only about twenty feet away from the spot where the last searcher had staked her claim, nearer by many feet than that of any other aspirant. Messrs. Gilbert White and Lowell Upson, also of the American School, were next closest to the deposit.

GIVES ALL TO FUND

The basketfull of gleaming new Yuans was handed over to the successful young lady with appropriate remarks and gestures by Miss Edna Lee Booker, of the STAR staff, Mr. Bartlett assisting, and little Miss Doremus, with a smile which dimmed the shimmering of the dollars then furnished a glorious climax to the whole affair by presenting her find to the American School fund.

Miss Doremus' donation is to be credited to the subscription list being gotten up by her class in the school, where a spirited competition is going on among the various sections. Previous to the making of her "strike" the class had amassed $21. Now it looks as though they would top the list.

"I'm awfully happy to win," quoth Miss Doremus, "but I'm happier in giving it to the school."

ANNOUNCE DONATIONS

Contributions were announced at yesterday's tiffin from the Columbia Country Club, Taels 1,000; E. C. Gill of the International Export Company, Taels 1,000; H. G. Robinson, Taels 500 and C. W. Atkinson, Taels 500.

Members of the Shanghai Rotary Club attended the tiffin and President H. C. Norman of the organisation delivered a short address in which he lauded the members of the American community for carrying into practice the Rotary motto throughout the world—Service.

Mr. Miller of the Science Department of the School spoke and introduced Henry Waters, who expressed the appreciation of the student body for the work being done in behalf of the new school project. The school quartet sang several selections, among them "We Want A New School."

The school principal took occasion to thank H. S. Honigsberg and Company for the use of several motor cars for the committee.

One hundred workers were again present at the tiffin and the following reports of sums collected were made by team captains:

so we could say during the contortions of the Italian table d'hote orchestra. "Oh, that's the Cara Nome from Rigoletto, isn't it?" We thought, too, of a little Italian grand opera theater in San Francisco, where the artistes push the humble banana-cart by day and do a letter-perfect imitation of Caruso by night. We once saw Faust pay his court clad in a sad looking medieval doublet and twentieth century trousers, but before the end of his first solo, we had entirely forgotten the costume. Maybe grand opera isn't music, but to that audience of crab-fishers, vegetable peddlers, wash-board prima donnas, and up-town visitors, it served as a very acceptable substitute.

DRAWS COMPARISON

Opera producers, Mr. Paci explained, have their imaginations imprisoned in a box-office and kept on a diet of little pasteboards. Symphonic music as a rule makes no compromise with popular taste and can therefore reach such lofty heights that the ordinary mortal can't see them from an airplane.

"The taste for pure symphonic music is gradually becoming more general," Mr. Paci remarked. "Italy was formerly the land of opera. Every city had an opera theater, but few had regular concerts. Now, however, the taste for musical pageantry is giving way a little to the love of real music."

In Germany Mr. Paci found the best music and the greatest quantity of it, "The Germans, however, have been unable to free themselves from the influence of the classicists," he stated. "Even Korgold, the young and ultra-modern composer whose studies I hope to present here, cannot quite shake off the hold of Wagner and Beethoven."

From England Shanghai's orchestra conductor brought some works so new that they have not been printed. They were painstakingly copied for him from the original scores and will be played here before they are heard generally even in Europe. England, like the Latin countries, is likewise following the Debussy school of impressionistic music. The works Mr. Paci is bringing with him were written by men who stood by and watched the usual laws of composition being swept up by the street-cleaning department.

The Municipal Orchestra is going to raise the Bertillion measurements of Shanghai's brow by giving several performances of chamber music. Mr. Paci has scheduled the first to take place shortly after his bow as conductor on November sixth, its special purpose being the introduction of the three new soloists whom he has brought from Europe. The new first violin and concert master, Mr. Arrigo Foa, was the winner of the gold medal at the Conservatory in Milan, and has had a distinguished later career. Besides the soloists, five other new members are joining the orchestra. Concerts of chamber music, for those who appreciate the more difficult compositions, will be given monthly at least and perhaps more frequently.

ALL HIS OWN WAY

The great advantage of being an orchestra conductor in Shanghai, Mr. Paci says, is the fact that the organisation is not dependent on the whims of the box-office and can therefore play very advanced music without fear of walking the ties or hiding among the cargo in a home-going vessel.

"Most programs in Europe are a terrible hodge-podge," Mr. Paci said. "The director must make a financial success; therefore he includes very light selections among numbers of real worth. That is something I refuse to do. Occasionally, we shall give a popular program and make all the numbers light, but ordinarily, the programs will include only music of a very high calibre. Furthermore, I shall always attempt to preserve one mood, and for that reason I shall not put French, English and Italian compositions on the same program."

Mr. Paci admits cheerfully that he is sitting on the top of the world, with the Municipal Orchestra cuddled up beside him. "As far as I know, Shanghai is the only city which can hear the best music played by its own orchestra without paying a price," the conductor remarked.

We started to say something just then, but the maestro stopped us with a gesture of scorn and another aviation of the shoulders.

"Fifty cents," said Mr. Paci, "is not a price."

Perhaps not, but we've generally managed to buy a number of ricsha rides with it.

Miss Zung Of China Tells Women Of Labor Conditions

(Reuter's Service)

Geneva, Oct. 19.—The International Congress of Working Women opened here today. Ten countries were represented, including China, Japan and South Africa.

In the course of an interesting discussion on the application of the Washington Resolutions, Miss Zung of the National Y.W.C.A. of China, who was the only Oriental present and was cordially welcomed, described labor conditions in China.

She said that the fact that China had not replied to the Washington Resolutions was not surprising, seeing that no Labor organisations existed in China while her industrial conditions were unlike those of other countries and worse by comparison.

BELGIUM ACCEPTS

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, Oct. 19.—Belgium has accepted the invitation to attend the Washington Conference "with thanks and appreciation."

BRIAND WILL ATTEND

Paris, Oct. 19.—In the Chamber of Deputies today, M. Briand announced that, subject to the approval of Parliament, he himself will head the French delegation to Washington.

He declared that France was strongly attached to a peace policy and promised to do his utmost for a considerate peace.

He had always sought arbitration whenever possible and was convinced that the Washington Conference would fulfil the worldwide desires for peace.

The presence of General Pershing and of American and French notables at the planting of an oak in the Trocadero Garden was a token of Franco-American friendship.

NAME CONFERENCE AIDES

(Reuter Pacific Service)

Peking, Oct. 17.—Dr. Li Fang, former Consul-General in North Borneo, and Mr. Chen Ching-ho have been apointed as members of the staff of the Pacific Conference Preparation Bureau. Mr. Kuang Yung-ching has been appointed as a secretary and Messrs. Li Yu, Ai Sze-tan, Chen Tien-chun, Tao Nai-wen and Shih Tsan-yuan as attaches to the Delegation to the Pacific Conference.

LEAGUE MUST HEAD MOVE

London, Oct 19.—At a meeting at the Mansion House today to support the League of Nations Union, Lord Robert Cecil, presiding, said that a general reduction of Armaments was essential and must be done by international agreement and by some organisation representing the whole or almost the whole of the nations of the world.

They earnestly desired the success of the Washington Conference but felt that the Conference was no reason for relaxing the efforts of the League in the same direction. On the contrary it was a great encouragement to know that they had the support and assistance of the Great Republic of the West.

Lord Grey said that he did not believe that we could recover from the consequences of the war unless all the great Governments of the world pursued the League of Nations' policy. He did not believe that there was danger of reducing armaments below the safety level.

LEAGUE HAS MACHINERY

If it was to be real and safe, reduction of expenditure on armaments must be simultaneous throughout the world and comprehensive and the League of Nations was the machinery essential to secure that it should be so. The League could not deal with Pacific questions because the United States was not a member of the League and it was impossible to deal with the Pacific without the United States.

He did not regard the Washington Conference as a rival to the League but as something which would cover some portion of the ground which the League was at present unable to cover. If the Washington Conference resulted in a settlement of the Pacific question, it would have made a great contribution towards world peace and the diminution of armaments but the Washington Conference was not going to replace the League because it was not going to provide permanent machinery to deal with European questions. The League, therefore, was the only effective insurance against war.

Chicago Bank's Loan Protested By The French

(Staff Wire To The China Press)

Peking, Oct. 20.—The French legation has entered a protest against the Chinese wine and tobacco loan now being negotiated with a syndicate represented here by John J. Abbott of the Continental and Commercial National Bank of Chicago on the grounds that it violates the Yuchin Railway Agreement.

The latter agreement designates the tobacco tax as security for the French loan. The Chinese say the new loan designates the wine and tobacco tax which is distinct from the tobacco tax.

Farmers Of America Facing Grave Crisis

(U. S. Navy Radio through Reuter)

Desmoines, Oct. 19.—Governor N. E. Kendall, in opening a conference of Middle West Governors today to discuss freight, unemployment, interests, rates and other matters, said in the course of his speech it was common knowledge that during 1920 and 1921 farmers of the Mississippi Valley had operated at a substantial loss.

Consequently, everywhere in the grain belt farming was approaching a crisis which unless averted would be the most unprecedented in the history of the United States for the loss and suffering entailed.

Curb On Exchanges Urged In Message Of Gen. Ho Fung-Ling

Stricter restrictions for the stock and produce exchanges that have been brought into operation in Shanghai is urged in a message forwarded by Gen. Ho Fung-ling, Shanghai Defense Commissioner, to the Tuchun and Civil Governor of the province. General Ho suggests in his message that the question be taken up with the Consular body of Shanghai.

General Ho has also consulted with Liang Syoh-hu, deputy of the Ministry of Agriculture and Commerce and with the chairman of the General and City Chambers of Commerce on the situation.

He has also wired the Ministry of Agriculture and Commerce, saying that with other exchanges about to open and swell Shanghai's exchanges to almost the hundred mark that strict government regulations placed on all such organisations.

Eichenbaum Firm Wins Large Award In The Mixed Court

As the outcome of a cross suit between the Robert Eichenbaum Tobacco Company and the Shanghai Cigarette Company a judgment in the sum of $18,850 was given yesterday in favor of the Eichenbaum company in the Mixed Court before Russian Assessor Ivanow and Magistrate Loh.

The Eichenbaum Company, represented by Mr. J. Em. Lemiere, sued the Shanghai Cigarette Co. for $65,000 damages claimed through the failure of the defendants to accept 39 cases of cigarettes on a contract calling for 100 cases of cigarettes per month.

Mr. F. J. Schuhl, representing the defendants, contended that the cigarettes were not up to sample, and that the Eichenbaum concern had first broken the contract. Representing the Shanghai Company and Sung Kyuin-chin, Dzung Kyok-sung and K. Yong-tsang, in turn sued the Eichenbaum Company claiming Tls. 20,000 damages and asking for the return of Tls. 5,000 they asserted was posted as a bond with the Eichenbaum concern.

Judgement for the plaintiff was to cover damages resulting from a failure of the defendant to accept the cigarettes on the contract.

Japanese Charge Bolsheviks Set Fire To Forests

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, Oct. 15.—A forest-fire that broke out on the coast of the Russian Maritime Province in the early part of June is still spreading with unabated strength, according to a Tsuruga despatch published in Tokio.

Fifty miles of seething flames may be seen from the ocean, it is said, a spectacle of inexpressible grandeur and sublimity.

The origin of the fire was at first thought to be tobacco-ashes, but subsequently it was found, adds the message, that it was caused by the Bolsheviks to prevent the Japanese from monopolising the forests in the Province.

The forests contain much dry undergrowth and consequently the fire may continue indefinitely.

ATTORNEY MAKING PROTEST ON RULE IN MIXED COURT

Mr. R. S. Haskell Says He Will Take Assessor's Decision To Consular Body

Following the hearing of an opium case in the Mixed Court yesterday in which one Wang Tsang was sentenced to a month's imprisonment, Mr. Roland S. Haskell, an American attorney announced that he would file formal protest to the Consular body against rulings made in the case by American Assessor Tenney.

Wong Tsang was arrested by Detective Sergt. Robertson and Sub-Inspector Elliot and was charged with conducting an opium den at 573 Kwangse Road. When the case was called Mr. Haskell appeared for the defendant. Account books showing opium sales were introduced by the police and other testimony was adduced. When the penalty was imposed Mr. Haskell asked for an alternative fine instead of jail sentence and this was refused.

"I wish to enter an objection to the court's refusal to allow me to put my client on the stand in his own defense," Mr. Haskell said after sentence was pronounced.

"The Court will not entertain the objection," said Mr. Tenney. "You must remember this is a police court and we haven't a great deal of time."

"Will the court object to my addressing a protest to the Consular body through Mr. Cunningham because of such refusal and other actions not in accord with the rules for procedure in the Mixed Court?" Mr. Haskell asked.

"The Court will be very pleased to have you do so," Mr. Tenney replied.

Mr. Haskell said he would address the protest to Mr. Cunningham.

SCOTTISH BALL THIS YEAR TO BE NATIONAL AFFAIR

St. Andrews Society Meeting Frowns On 'Bunny Hug,' Elects New Officers

St. Andrews Society of Shanghai will hold its annual ball on November 28, but according to views given last night at the Society's annual meeting, which was held in the Town Hall, the 'Bunny Hug,' the 'Shimmy Hocus' and the 'Turkey Trop' are things that will have no place on the program.

The subject of the dances to be given at the ball was dealt with in addresses to the gathering by Mr. Brodie A. Clark and Mr. John Prentice who are of the staunchest and oldest members of the historic organisation and the sentiment they expressed in opposition to modern hectic phases of the dance seemed to meet with the full approval of the sixty-odd persons at the meeting.

WANT NATIONAL DANCES

So the ball, arrangements for which were left in the hands of the general committee, is to be an affair altogether Scottish and distinctively national in its character. It was mentioned among other things that there has been a deficit to meet after last year's ball and as Mr. Clark aptly pointed out, a reason for this may be found in the fact that the program was one of a kind all too familiar to Shanghai dancers with its one-steps and two-steps and dances of the sort. It is understood therefore that at the coming ball the program will be made up largely of the old-fashioned Scottish dances.

Mr. C. Gordon Mackie presided at last night's meeting and as the outcome of an election that was held Mr. A. S. Campbell was elected to serve as President for the coming year and Mr. Eric M. Ross as Vice President. The committee elected en bloc consists, with the two officers named, of Messrs. K. J. McEuen, R. W. Robertson, N. S. Brown, C. T. Beath, A. V. Monk, C. Gordon Mackie, John Prentice, A. T. Downie, Hugh Martin, C. H. Rutherford, F. G. Downie, C. W. Porter, J. G. Clay, W. Webster, J. R. Moodie and Dr. H. C. Patrick.

GENERAL REPORT

In the course of the address of the Chairman it was reported that 102 new members had joined the Society in the past year as against 19 removed on account of death or departure from Shanghai. The Society's receipts for the year amounted to $1,032.-54 with disbursements of $1,746.-83. It was stated that relief granted in needy cases has been exceptionally heavy through the period by reason of the depression existing all over the world.

Reference was made by the Chairman to an appeal for subscriptions for the Scottish National War Memorial that had been received from His Grace the Duke of Atholl and, in answer to this the sum of £248-19-3 was raised here and was forwarded. Regret was expressed at the losses susfained by the Society through the deaths of Dr. Neil Macleod and Messrs. J. McInnes and P. Fenwick in the past year. The annual bursaries of the Society were again voted.

On motion made by the Chairman and seconded by Mr. Prentice the annual report and accounts were approved. The resolution for the coming ball was offered by Mr. Clark, seconded by Mr. Prentice.

Kalmykoff's Pictures To Be Exhibited Here

An exhibition of the paintings of Ivan Kalmykoff, who has achieved widespread fame as an artist in Europe and who has come to Shanghai on a tour of the world will be held at the Palace Hotel for three days beginning tomorrow. Among others who have purchased his works are the Ministry of Foreign Affairs at Peking, the prince of Siam and trustees of the Museum of Colombo.

Kalmykoff was educated at the Academy in Moscow. The King and Queen Mother of Italy some time ago purchased a number of his pictures for their private collections and as a mark of special honor he was accorded the title of professor of the Academy at the Russian capital.

After leaving Shanghai Kalmykoff plans to continue his journey and will go through Japan, Australia and America before returning to Italy to continue his work.

Chauffeur Charged With Manslaughter

A chauffeur appeared in the special Traffic Court yesterday on a charge of manslaughter as the result of the killing of a Chinese boy on Chapoo Road a week ago. The case was adjourned for hearing on November 3.

Twenty-eight cases were heard by the Court, the majority of them having to do with minor infringements of the traffic regulations. One chauffeur was fined $50 for driving on the wrong side of the road and another, who drove a truck into a ricsha, injuring its occupant, was assessed a like sum, of which $24 is to go to the injured man.

Mrs. Gordon-West's Opinion of "Kirby's Sea-Sick Cure"

Park Lane,
February 4, 1912.

Messrs. COLLINS & ROSS,
154 Bermondsey St., London.

DEAR SIRS,

Until my last voyage to New York I dreaded sea travelling. Hitherto I had been so susceptible to sea-sickness that I could not leave my bed during the whole of the voyage. Even when travelling by train I have been obliged to lie down.

Before leaving for New York, I was persuaded to take "KIRBY'S SEA-SICK CURE" and was surprised to find that I not only avoided sea-sickness, but was entirely free from nausea of any kind. We had very rough seas during the greater part of the voyage, but I took all my meals in the saloon, and never felt better.

I shall never travel without the cure in future. You should make the remedy widely known, for it will be a boon to thousands.

Yours gratefully,
(Signed) MARY GORDON-WEST.

HARRIERS CLUB IN ANNUAL MEETING ORGANISE FOR NEW YEAR AND GIVE OUT PRIZES

E. C. Pearce Elected President, H. D. Rodger, Vice; Report Reviews Successful Season And Promises Greater Development Of Cross Country Work; Young Men Are Wanted

Shanghai Harriers Club Annual General Meeting was held at the Shanghai Rowing Club last night when the prizes won during the past season were distributed by Mr. Williard W. Bartlett who presided and spoke to the members re athletics.

The following officials were elected for the ensuing year:

President, Mr. E. C. Pearce.

Vice President, Mr. H. D. Rodger.

Captain, C. C. Reneman.

Vice Captain, H. F. L. Wilson.

Chairman of Committee, Mr. W. W. Bartlett.

Committee: W. W. Bartlett (Chairman), B. Lawrie Smith, G. E. Marshall, M. Seredkin, P. S. Hyndman, I. A. S. Alves, S. Cassia, W. M. Wradfield, W. McLaren, G. A. Draviseldt, E. Lewis, A. H. Atkins, C. G. J. Goodhind and F. S. Bridges.

Hon. Secretary: McKenna.

CHAIRMAN'S REPORT

"Gentlemen: Since our last report issued in September last year the Club has had a very successful cross-country season, runs taking place each week end. These runs were well supported by our members, several promising young runners having joined the club.

"Several handicaps were run off during the season and these were won by G. E. Marshall, S. Cassia, O. Caldwell, G. Rose and H. F. L. Wilson while the following qualified for Club medals—B. Lawrie Smith, A. Hayes, W. Hudson, Herbert Waters, W. Bartlett, C. G. J. Goodhind, G. A. Johannson and C. C. Reneman.

"The race for schoolboys held under the auspices of the club was well supported, there being 77 competitors representing 8 Schools and Colleges. Fuh Tan University furnished the winning team with the Shanghai Public School team second, the individual champion in this race being one of our associate members G. Rose who later in the season won our club championship, which was very keenly contested by all the distance runers in the club over a course of about 8 miles, the distance being covered in excellent time.

"Congratulations to our members who won championships, A. Gutierez 100 yards, G. E. Marshall 220, S. Cassia 440 and C. C. Reneman 880. We again hope to see these members carry the Club's colors to victory in the forthcoming championships.

"In the near future we hope to arrange for some evening meetings and with more new members coming along there will no doubt be new records set up for Shanghai.

REVIEWS OLYMPIC GAMES

"Keen interest was taken by our members in the Far Eastern Olympic games which took place here last May when the Filipinos carried off premier honors. Our members no doubt gained much knowledge by watching and competing against these champions of the east. Our two teams entered in the Relay Races ran and though beaten were far from being disgraced, the team consisting of Marshall, Seredkin, Gutierez and Emamooden gained third place medals in the half mile race while Cassia, Waters, Lawrie Smith and Drairseldt also ran well in the mile race. Our 220 champion Marshall ran third in the 220 yards championship also winning his heat in the 100 yards dash and he together with Seredkin entered the final to be narrowly beaten out of a place. It was unfortunate that our club Captain Reneman was unable to assist us in the Relay races through indisposition.

"Of our old Club members J. Smeeden, Canton, F. H. Watson, Nanking, and E. R. Hawley, Hankow, send along their best wishes to all members.

"It is with deep regret that I have to record the death of one of our young members, Charlie Rose, a most promising athlete. He won our 5 miles Road Race 3 seasons ago and last year at the Police sports he gained first prize in the walking competition.

"It has been suggested that we hold a sports meeting in the spring, a suggestion that I hope all our members will heartily support for during the coming cross-country season we shall no doubt discover new talent.

"We start the season with a balance on the right side; the collection of subscriptions has been somewhat difficult owing to the fact that members have changed their addresses, there being several subscriptions which I hope to collect from members who have not paid for the past season.

RUNS TO BE SHORTER

"It is our intention during the coming season to cut the runs down

FIELD MEET AT NANCHANG ENDS UP IN A RIOT

Athletes Losing Places Mob The Umpires; Meet Called Off On Third Day

(China Press Correspondence)

Nanchang, Oct. 15.—The big three day provincial athletic meet staged by the Educational Association for the schools of the province brought hundreds of outside students into the city but ended with no decisions.

The great mat enclosure erected outside the South East gate was trampled down by mobs of curious on the first day, making it impossible to carry on after two o'clock.

The second day found a cordon of police drawn about the grounds which effectively held out the hoipoiloi but the students themselves staged several small riots due to failures of the umpires to present them with the points and places they were unable to earn.

Teachers had no control over their students and although an effort was made to go on with the third day of the meet the whole thing had finally to be given up as a failure.

Those in charge of the meet say that it demonstrates that more training in sportsmanship must be given before such a meet can be practical for Kiangsi students. It reflects the lack of discipline existing throughout most of the schools, a condition which has been greatly aggravated by two years of strikes of various sorts and kinds.

The hope is expressed that both students and teachers will see in this failure the need of stricter discipline inside the schools and cleaner sportsmanship without.

Obituary

MR. HARRY McADAM

With military honors the body of Mr. Harry McAdam, veteran of the Great War and member of the Municipal Electricity Department staff, was laid to rest yesterday afternoon at Bubbling Well Cemetery. A large number of friends and ex-service men attended the services. The chief mourners were Capt. and Mrs. McAdam, brother and sister-in-law of the deceased.

The cortege, a gun carriage of the S.V.C. Field Artillery Battery, and a firing squad was joined at Carter and Bubbling Well Roads by a long procession of ex-service men, mostly in uniform, and by the Municipal Band and many employes of the Electricity Department.

The service was conducted by Sub-Dean C. E. Spencer of Holy Trinity Cathedral and the officer pall bearers then bore the coffin to the grave, after which the firing party fired the salute and C.M.S. Sgt. Hearn blew the "Last Post."

A great number of wreaths and floral offerings banked the chapel aisle and grave side, the following being among those sending these final tributes to the young man's memory:

Sporting Editor's Letter Box

Sporting Editor, THE CHINA PRESS:

Sir: It is to be hoped that the catering at the Rifle Range canteen on Saturday and Sunday will be better attended to and that competitors who have their homes anywhere from three to seven miles will be able to procure some hot tea or coffee prior to 8 a.m., as was the case last week. Breakfast can be had in restaurants at 7 a.m. Why not at the S.V.C. canteen, seeing it is run now by a foreigner? May I ask why was the catering for the Corps not publicly tendered for? This is an International Settlement—And why the prohibitive prices charged? A bottle of beer (local or Japanese) cost 35 cents, which is exactly hotel bar prices. With free shelter, electric light, etc., beer should be not more than 20 cents a bottle. Cannot the corps run their own bar? I am,

"REVEILLE."

S.V.C. Notes On The Annual Shoot

The clerk of the weather was the only renegade who endeavored to mar the success of the first two days of the Annual Rifle Meeting. Even he was not too hard on us, as we were able to start operations on the first morning at 6 a.m. precisely, and the prevailing drizzle was better than the inevitable mist of a fine October morning. Though the weather was depressing, the condition for shooting were throughout quite good. The worst feature of the depressing weather was its deterrent to attendance of some of those who had entered for the meeting. Saturday's weather did not keep many away, the best part of 200 attending, but on Sunday only some 150 competed and the falling off in numbers cannot be attributed to any great extent to conscientious objectors. That the spirits of those who did attend were not in the least damped by the weather is largely due to the excellent arrangments made by the A.R.M. committee who have worked hard at the preparations for this meeting for many months past. The program of events is most interesting and strictly practical from the service point of view.

CRGE PRACTICE

Experiences of the meeting up to date show that most members of the Corps require a lot of practice in rapid firing, especially from the loading point of view. Comparatively few managed to get off more than 2 rounds during a ten seconds exposure of a target, whereas at least double that rate of aimed shots should be attained with practice.

It does not seem to be generally realised that the main object of insisting on the bayonet not being shown over the top of the parapet prior to practice No. 16 of the A.M.C. and similar practices is that the bayonet shall not be visible to the enemy. In the trench warfare during the Great War, one of the surest indications of an impending attack was the display of bayonets over the top of the parapet. An outcome of this fact is the dulling of the surface of all bayonets issued to the British Army in recent years. The proper "preparatory position" for a firer from a trench to assume is very well illustrated in the framed examples of firing positions which are hung up at the Drill Hall and in the huts at the Rifle Range. All ranks could not do better than make a close study of all the positions illustrated and assimilate their own training accordingly.

THE PROBLEM OF SIZE

The difficulty of men of every stature accommodating themselves to the same height of parapet was rather pronounced during the meeting. Very tall men must perforce make the most convenient adaptation of their extra inches, while for small men there will in future be filled sandbags handy for them to place in position for their feet. This expedient had to be resorted to when the British 35th (Bantam) Division occupied trenches constructed for men of normal size. An amusing and absolutely true story found its way into Punch of the arrival of a section of "Bantams" into the trenches. This section was under the instruction of a Staffordshire battalion of ripe experience. Thirsting for information a "Bantam" asked a Staffordshire stalwart, "Say, Mate, what abart these ere 'Uns, are they very fierce feliars?" The Staffordshire man replied, "Never you mind the 'Uns, my lad—all you've got to watch is them blinkin' rats!" Visions of the comparative size of the bantams and the rats which swarmed in the trenches will no doubt vary, but the latter appeared to most, even before the consumption of the rum ration, of a remarkably large size.

The Recruiting Campaign has been finally launched and as the company commander mentioned at the annual general meeting held last Friday, several new members had been enrolled as a result. The company, however has lost two men through transfers, and will be losing the services of 2-Lieut. A. M. Wilkie on account of his impending departure for home.

The company commander at the annual meeting outlined a scheme he intends to carry out during the training season: taking two sections at a time in squad drill without and with arms, and later the platoons and company. By this means he hopes to give more work to the N.C.O.'s, particularly section leaders, and to smarten up the drill generally.

Those members of the company who have entered the corps annual rifle meeting are making a fair showing, and several prizes have already been won by them. The October monthly Cup Competition will take place on Sunday morning, October 30 when the last practice of the classification course will be the order of the day.

The company goes into camp on Friday, November 25 and comes out on Monday 28. During that week-end the classification course will be completed and, though nothing is yet definately decided, it is possible that a ladies competition will be arranged for Sunday afternoon which will be guest day.

Arrangements are now complete for the dance which will take place at the Astor House on October 31. Those members who have not yet sent in the names of their guests to their Platoon Sergeants are requested to do so.

to a shorter distance with one long distance run during the each month when all members will pack together and no racing allowed.

"My cordial thanks are due to the members for their kind support during the past season. I hope each member will make an effort to bring along a new member. It is interesting to note that cross-country running forms part of the army training and this excellent and healthy sport is attracting more athletes than ever as time goes on. We can number among our present members many ex-champions who are greatly interested in the youngsters of the Club. It is to the playing fields to which we must look to produce men with healthy minds and sound bodies and the Club is doing good work among the youths and young men of Shanghai which is sufficient justification for asking for support."

The distribution of prizes followed.

Is Your Baby Gaining in Weight?

One of the surest signs that a baby is making good progress is steady increase in weight. After the first week there should be regular and rapid growth if the baby is being properly nourished.

The most common cause of failure to gain weight is malnutrition, the food is either deficient in quality or quantity, or the digestive organs are not doing their work properly. When the stomach or bowels are at fault all that is necessary, usually, to set matters right is the administration of Baby's Own Tablets, the pleasant-tasting Canadian remedy for little ones of all ages. No fear need be entertained as to the wisdom of giving these Tablets, because they are guaranteed under a Government Analyst's certificate, to contain not a single particle of opiate, narcotic, or other injurious drug, and to be equally helpful and harmless to the youngest infant as to the child of 8 years old or more.

Baby's Own Tablets are just the right remedy for infantile constipation, colic, indigestion, diarrhoea, simple fever, teething troubles and worms. They bring natural, restful health-promoting sleep, restore appetite and make the baby thrive. Of chemists or post free, 60 cents the vial, from the Dr Williams' Medicine Co., 96 Szechuen Road, Shanghai.

NOTICE
Transactional Settlement Of The Banque Industrielle De Chine

In accordance with the provision of the Law of the 2nd. July 1919, re the Transactional Settlement, and in the strict interest of the creditors, the Judge-delegate of the Tribunal of Commerce of the Seine district for the Banque Industrielle de Chine has issued on the proposal of the Judicial Administrator an ordinance prescribing the proceedings to follow for the exhibition, affirmation and the verification of the claims against the said Bank in China.

The Consul for France holding office in places where the Banque Industrielle de Chine has branches shall address to each creditor a registered letter inviting him to remit to the Consular-Office a statement presenting in detail his claims fixed per 26th July 1921, certified true and genuine.

This statement must be accompanied by documents justifying such claims as: statements of accounts, passbooks, drafts, cheques letters of credit, telegraphic remittances, orders of payment, deposit receipts of any kind, paying-in-receipts, credit advices, etc.

Creditors who do not possess these documents must submit in their stead statement of account with the Bank, certifying the true standing of their account on the 26th July 1921.

On receipt of all the documents above mentioned, deposited with him before the 15th. November 1921, the Consul shall return to creditors all deeds and values, after having countersigned all claim-statements signed by them. These claim statements will be remitted to the Tribunal of Commerce of the Seine-district at Paris.

For the exhibition and affirmation of their claims, creditors may appoint a proxy, holding a non-legalised power of attorney, a model of which will be sent to them by the Consul.

After receipt of and examination by the Judicial Administrator of all the Statements of the Head Office and the different branches of the Banque Industrielle de Chine, the proceedings for the registration of claims are definitely ended and the Banque Industrielle de Chine has to deposit with the Registrar's Office of the Tribunal of Commerce of the Seine-district its proposal for a Transactional Settlement, accompanied by the report of the Judicial Administrator on the proceedings taken.

These proposals of the Transactional Settlement will afterwards lead to proceedings similar to those adopted for the exhibition and affirmation of claims and creditors will be called upon to give their adhesion or to notify their refusal of acceptance of these proposals. After which these proposals will be submitted to the homologation of the Tribunal of Commerce of the Seine.

In order to hurry the Settlement it is in the interest of creditors to reply urgently to the information required by the Consul for France. Moreover, as per the conditions of the Law of the 2nd. July 1919 creditors who have not replied within the delay stipulated are considered to accept as genuine and correct the statements of account of the Bank and are registered under this heading in the transactional settlement, but having no right of vote as to the final proposal.

On the other hand debtors of the Banque Industrielle de Chine have to settle their accounts likewise before the 15th November 1921 through the intermedium of the Manager of the Branch interested or through the Correspondent of the Judicial Administrator, or through the Chancellor of the French Consulate.

A. DU PAC DE MARSOULIES
Correspondent of the Judical Administrator.

Schurman Right Regarding China Says Press Critic

(China Press Correspondence)

Peking, Oct. 17.—In commenting on the recent speech of the American minister at the dinner of the American Chamber of Commerce at Tientsin, the Tientsin Yi Shih Pao points out the application to China of his remarks on education and commerce.

After saying that the well being of any nation depends on the development of its education and commerce, the Tientsin paper shows that during the past few years little progress has been made in the direction of commercial and industrial development and that even education has shown the signs of a very marked decline in the progress which was being made.

The reasons assigned for this situation are in the case of industry the continual political strife of China, and in the case of education the financial stringency of the government brought about by its eagerness to stand in well with and please the exponents of militarism.

The Yi Shih Pao seconds the expressions of the minister in regard to the friendliness of Sino-American relations, commenting on the efforts of many Americans resident in China to promote the education and trade of the country. It points out, however, that various difficulties in international relations limit the extent of America's help no matter how well acquainted with the Far Eastern situation the United States may be.

The Chinese paper on its part urges the merchants and educators of China to co-operate with those of the United States in order that the advancement of education and commerce may be facilitated and friendly relations maintained with the people of America.

C. E. Ry. Is Seeking $35,000,000 Loan

(China Press Correspondence)

Peking, Oct. 17.—The Chinese Banking Group is negotiating with General Sung Hsiao-lien, Director-General of the Chinese Eastern Railway, for a loan of $35,000,000 to be used for the reorganisation of the railway, according to reports received through Chinese channels from the Ministry of Communications.

The loan is said to bear twelve percent interest, and it will be secured by the proceeds of the railway, but contrary to the usual custom, no discount will be charged. The Chinese banks are also reported to have declared that if this sum does not prove sufficient for the reorganisation work they will be able to finance another loan to the railway.

Exchange Fluctuations

Asia Banking Corporation

October 20, 1921.

Spot and forward bar silver were each down ⅜d. in London yesterday.

The New York price declined to 69¼ and the London-New York cross rate is now 392.

The official Sterling rate was 3/10, the Gold Dollar rate 75⅛ and the Yen rate 63⅜. As, however, the market was firm at the opening, with good sellers well above these rates, the Sterling rate was raised to 3/11, the Gold Dollar rate to 76¾, and the Yen rate dropped to 62½.

After the change in rates the market remained firm and business in Sterling was done at 4/0¼ for October delivery and 3/11 for December, with sellers of Gold Dollars at 79 for October and 77½ for December.

Late in the afternoon there were good sellers of Sterling and Gold Dollars at these quotations. China sold silver again in London yesterday, but the market there was reported to have closed steady.

The New York market is also reported as being steady.

It may be, therefore, that the present reaction in silver has come to an end for the time being.

Freight Market

Messrs. Wheelock and Company write as follows in their freight market of yesterday.

The situation in our Outward Freight markets—both to Europe and America—is identical, there is therefore no need to dilate on them separately!—they can only be described as utterly "lifeless" and we are sorry to say that we can see little prospect of any improvement in the near future.

COASTWISE

There has been a marked improvement in various directions since our last report particularly from the North and indications point to a continuance of same or at any rate until the Northern Ports are closed to shipping for the Winter whilst rice has also commenced to move from River Ports.

Exchange Market

Messrs. Maitland, Fearon and Brand write as follows in their exchange circular for week ending October 19.

Exchange.—The London price of silver at 40⅝d. shows a drop of 1⅜d. since our last circular. Our rate for T/T on London at 3/11d. is 2d. lower than last week. The absence of genuine cover, in the shape of Export paper, for the very large demand for Gold remittances on account of improved deliveries of Imports held in Shanghai on a Gold basis, though not necessarily imported during the present year, now begins to be a feature in our exchange market. This demand, augmented by the demand on a/c of "invisible imports" has been covered to a great extent by speculative sales of Gold T/T for forward delivery by our local gold dealers and the Chinese Exchange Banks. Exports remain extremely dull with small prospects of improvement and the only steady feature in the present position appears to be an immediate shortage of money in Native circles, due probably to the floatation of native finance companies, whose advent is, to say the least, premature, if the present state of trade is taken into consideration. With lower rates of exchange it is probable that a proportion of the silver shipped "up country" from Shanghai will return. In the meanwhile the present stock, augmented by arrivals of silver which are expected should be sufficient to finance the present requirements of Exports. Our Exchange Market closed weak.

Our stocks of silver are reported as follows:—

Sycee and Bar Silver Tls. 22,541,000 practically unchanged.

Chinese and Mexican Dollars $22,250,000 practically unchanged.

Estimated value in Tls. 88,540,000 as against Tls. 56,000,000 held at this time last year.

Shanghai Tramways

The following is the traffic return of the Shanghai Tramways, Foreign Settlement, for the week ended October 19, 1921, with figures for the corresponding week last year:

Loss by currency depreciation	19,957.26	14,215.96

Coal Market

Messrs. Wheelock and Company write as follows in their coal market of yesterday.

Japan Coal.—There is nothing fresh to report on this market since last writing as enquiries are still proceeding with a view to ascertaining next year's repuirements and we expect it will take some time yet before negotiations materialise.

Fushun Coal.—No change.

Fuchung Anthracite. — No change.

Kaiping Coal.—Very little new business has been transacted during the past fortnight although arrivals and sales under existing contracts have been well maintained.

It is not expected that there will be much further buying during the present year, and had deliveries not been restricted by the recent bad weather which has hampered inland navigation, the offtake would have been considerably in excess of former years. The number of steamers now trading in the East absorb a large amount of coal as bunkers, whilst Commercial Concerns especially Native continue to increase and swell the demand.

The Hwai River Floods

BY DR. ELLIOTT I. OSGOOD

AFTER traveling up and down the Hwai River for 120 miles through the worst flooded regions, I am no longer surprised that floods visit this section so often. On an average of about every five years, the streets and homes in the Hwai cities are flooded and the country crops destroyed. The chief reason dates from the Ming Dynasty and it caused a war between northern Kiangsu and Anhwei.

The Hwai River drains central Honan and northern Anhwei. In the latter province a low range of mountains runs along the south bank of the river, limiting any floods to the northern side. Northern Anhwei is a very level, low-lying plain. Across this plain, flowing to the southeast and emptying their waters into the Hwai, are the Hung, Tasha, Sifei, Kwo, Kwei, Tung, To and numerous other small rivers. Wuho, which is 50 miles below Pengpu, takes its name from "five rivers" which pour their waters through that small district. This district and much of the Szechow and Suyi districts is but a few feet above the summer level of the Hungtse Lake.

The hsien city of Suyi lies at the upper end of the Hungtse Lake and is a "city set on a hill which cannot be hid." Its district lies south of the lake and has numerous low mountains in the midst of which are a number of lakes. The water from these also empties into the Hungtse Lake. In the winter time this lake is but a mud flat or its surface but shallowly covered with water. The lack of proper drainage of this lake into the sea is the reason for the Hwai floods.

If one will take a glance at a map of this region and the adjoining country in Kiangsu, he will see a dotted line which was until 1852 the bed of the Yellow River. It came almost to the lake and then swung back northeast emptying into the sea not more than seventy-five miles from the eastern side of Hungtse Lake. The Hwai, in former days, had also a channel through the nearby regions. Kiangsu is a low-lying plain built up through the centuries by these rivers and the tides of the ocean and it is crossed and recrossed by small rivers, natural and artificial, connecting the beds of the two larger streams.

The flood waters from these two rivers overflowed the Kiangsu farms in former days as the Hwai now overflows the Anhwei country. Back in the Ming Dynasty the Kiangsu farmers sought for a remedy, but instead of trying to dig out the beds of these rivers, they proceeded to throw up the great Chang-kai Dam around which since many a battle has raged. This dam was built across the end of the Hungtse Lake damming up the Hwai waters. The following summer the Anhwei people found themselves suddenly engulfed and their crops destroyed. They took up arms and drove back the Kiangsu men and attempted to tear out the dam. The Kiangsu men rallied and regained control of the dam, holding their own through the subsequent war. Finally the Anhwei people appealed to Peking and a compromise was made. Five great gates, named after the five virtues, were installed and these were to be opened whenever the water reached certain heights. Like most promises in China, this one is observed in the breach and the gates have silted up with dirt.

In 1852 the Yellow River switched her channel and her misery to Shantung. The old Kiangsu channels have been turned into rich farming land. The Hwai River is allowed to gradually work into the Grand Canal where it finds its way to the Yangtse or through small rivers and canals to the sea. Every few years a flood comes. If the rains are general, as they have been this year, the Yangtse River remains high until late in the autumn. There is no outlet for the superabundance of water and the Anhwei farmers pay the penalty. This year the Kiangsu farmers have also suffered for their blotting out of the old river beds.

Some years ago Chang Chien, who is a Kiangsu man, put forward the plan of reopening the old mouth of the Hwai to the sea. The American Red Cross promised to finance the scheme up to a certain figure and sent out engineers who made preliminary surveys. It meant the tearing up of some rich farm land and the farmers, or rather the wealthy men who owned the land, objected. They had sufficient influence at court to balk the scheme. Then came the European War and the promised funds were diverted to caring for the wounded. Had that scheme been carried through then there would have been no such disastrous flood this summer. When the government proposes building a railroad they do not stop because some wealthy land owner objects. They buy the strip of land needed and go ahead. Why cannot a river bed be reopened in the same way?

Estimates, founded on investigations made after the former floods and reports from trustworthy Chinese and foreign sources, show that 8,000 square miles have been flooded, eighty millions of dollars worth of crops and property destroyed and between one and two million people rendered homeless. All this could have been saved but for the selfishness of wealthy property owners and officials who aided them. These figures take no account of the damage done in Kiangsu Province.

Last week we traveled in a launch from Hwaiyuen and Pengpu to Su-yi Hsien on Hungtse Lake. The boat stopped at many points to allow us to go ashore and investigate. We found the dyke, which famine funds had rebuilt less than ten years ago, broken in numberless places. In most places the water rose high above this dyke and the typhoon which accompanied the rains swept over the houses, which had been built on it for safety, and tore them to pieces. We found a few scattered bricks where there had been village streets.

Ask the people, who have remained by the wreckage where the others have gone and the invariable answer is, "On the road to beg." So they have. From the train windows we saw group after group, men trundling a wheelbarrow with their few belongings and the women and children trailing along behind. In all the towns and villages from the Hwai to Nanking they are throwing up mat sheds and day by day going from home to home, fast drifting into parasitism.

Along the entire 120 miles of the Hwai River over which we traveled we saw but two places which had escaped injury. These were the market town of Shwanko and the city of Su-yi, both of which are built upon rocky promontories high above flood waters. Those who remain near their former homes will get reeds from the Hungtse Lake and straw from their spring wheat stacks which withstood the storms, and with these materials throw up shelters for the winter. Two thirds of them will be able to go through until next wheat harvest on the grain they saved from the floods. The other third will either have to be aided by relief work on the dykes and roads and fed by famine funds—or beg or die.

It is known that there is in the hands of the various relief committees and the government sufficient to care for these without a cash being asked for from abroad. The surtaxes of the two provinces of Anhwei and Kiangsu should at once be diverted to this work of relief and any surplus from the Customs should be used at once to start work in Kiangsu in reopening the old mouth of the Hwai, thus preventing future disasters in this region.

The Rubber Position And Future Policy

(Note: The following letter is from Harrisons & Crosfield Limited No. 1-4 Great Tower Street, London.)

Whatever views may be held as to the effectiveness or feasibility of the proposed Rubber Producers Corporation, it will be agreed on all hands that many months would have to elapse before any such British and Dutch organisations, as proposed, could become operative.

Much of an extremely pessimistic nature has recently been written about the Industry, and as this does not appear to us to be justified by the facts and may induce shareholders to sacrifice their interests, a course which they may subsequently regret we have thought it desirable to sum up the position as it presents itself to our view.

Rubber production, which ten or twelve years ago, partook of the nature of pioneering, has now become a sound industry, resting on that surest of all foundations, the permanent unavoidable and growing needs of the whole world for its product. To ignore the accumulated stock in the United Kingdom or the deplorable price to which rubber has fallen would be altogether unwise, but to shut one's eyes to the fact that this is concurrent with the deepest and most widespread depression in trade and finance in living memory, and that the position of the Rubber Industry is no worse than that of many other industries, is equally foolish.

The two serious facts which face the Industry are, that rubber is selling at less than the average cost of production, and that "visible" stocks in the United Kingdom are abnormally high and now amount to over 80,000 tons. These conditions however, are similar to those affecting most other industries today.

With the exception of "visible" stocks in the United Kingdom and one or two continental countries, the stocks of the world can only be estimated. Reliable statistics are not available. Probably stocks in the East are above normal, but, owing to the pressure of the financial and trade conditions which have prevailed during the last twelve months, those in the hands of manufacturers, both in America and elsewhere, are certainly reduced.

Until 1919 consumption seems to have kept pace with output. We estimate that during 1919 visible and invisible stocks of the world increased by 10,000 tons, and during 1920 and the first six months of 1921 by 75,000 tons. The increase during the last eighteen months is equal to about 25 percent of the consumption of crude rubber during 1920 and less than 33 percent of the estimated consumption for the current year.

The suggestion that the War demands exceed the post-war peace demands is negatived by the facts. Our estimate of the supplies of all crude rubber, including wild from 1915 to 1920 is as follow:

1915	162,700 tons
1916	209,900 "
1917	267,200 "
1918	266,800 "
1919	343,000 "
1920	370,000 "

Without any allowance for increase for stocks to correspond with increased consumption, the 1919 consumption of crude rubber is estimated by us at 330,000 tons and that for 1920, when the world depression set in, 310,000 tons.

It is now apparent that the rest of the world, outside America, will this year collectively consume the same quantity as in 1920, namely, 90,000 tons. This may be regarded as very encouraging, having regard to the diminished consumption of most other commodities.

The whole of the shortage in consumption likely to be realised this year, as compared with last may be attributed to America. It is estimated at 70,000 tons, but in our opinion, the drop will not be so great. The various estimates of new tyres required, the number of new cars which are being built in America, and the reduction in stocks of manufactured articles which has taken place, lend support to the view, that America, which consumed 220,000 tons of crude rubber in 1920, will consume more than 150,000 tons this year.

Having regard to the substantial falling off of the output of crude rubber which has taken place (the rate of which will probably be accelerated during the next few months) there is good reason to anticipate that consumption this year may equal the restricted production, but there is no prospect of any material rise in price until the existing surplus stocks are substantially reduced. The extreme pessimism current, however, about the future of the Industry, is, we consider, as little justified as the extreme optimism of the early part of 1920.

What is the remedy for the present position? It seems to us obvious that the principal remedy is the temporary restriction of output, organised and unorganised, and all interested in the Industry should encourage restriction.

In many cases the further restriction or cessation of tapping, which common sense and prudence dictated, has been delayed by the hope that prices would recover. Owing to the uncertainty of the duration of the general trade and financial depression, we consider the wise course for most rubber producing companies, is to reduce their output by at least 50 percent and for many to stop production altogether on some or all of their estates.

Apart from special conditions, Estates can be maintained for a year, without tapping, for a cost of about £5 per acre or less. Companies with limited resources should cease production and use their resources in preserving their capital asset. In most cases Shareholders will be well advised to find any additional funds required for this purpose rather than sacrifice their interests.

As to organised restriction support should be given to any scheme which is found practicable and can obtain sufficient adherents to justify it. The ideal proposal, in our opinion, would be a total cessation of tapping for a few months. This would be the most rapid method of reducing surplus stocks and would probably be followe by a period of restricted production through force of circumstances, or from reluctance to resume full production before it seemed clear that a period of remunerative prices was assured. If such a proposal to cease tapping for a few months were adopted, the labor could in many cases be retained and engaged upon some other Estate work until tapping was resumed.

An alternative would be general restriction to at least 50 percent for an agreed period. If the agreement were for a short period, renewable from time to time, it might be possible to secure wide support for such a proposal.

We should not ignore the grave difficulty which exists, and the delays which must occur, in obtaining any further organised restriction, particularly outside the members of the Rubber Growers Association, a body which represents about one third of the planted area. No effort should be spared, therefore, to encourage every possible method of unorganised restriction, irrespective of and contemporaneously with the consideration of any proposals for organised restriction.

In the meantime an obvious method, open to all, of strengthening the organisation of the Industry is to join the Rubber Growers Association, the subscription to which is one guinea per annum. The Association has done invaluable work for the Industry in many directions, and is now engaged, in addition to its efforts to effect further restriction, upon an energetic campaign for promoting extensions of the uses of rubber. A great accession of members would be a considerable source of moral and material strength to the Association and the Industry.

TRAFALGAR DAY

On October 21, 1805, Horatio Nelson and his fleet met and defeated the combined fleets of two enemy countries, and like many another hero it was:

"The path of Glory leads but to the grave."

Like Wolfe at Quebec, Moore at Corunna, and Sir Phillip Sidney at Zutphen, Nelson gave his life in return for his country's conception. Some 116 years have passed since the great sailor fell upon the deck of the Victory just when victory was assured.

"Bursting through the gloom
"With radiant glory from the trophied tomb,
"The sacred splendor of thy deathless name
"Shall grace and guard thy country's martial fame.
"Far-seen shall blaze the unextinguish'd ray,
"A mighty beacon, lighting Glory's ray;
"With living lustre this proud land adorn,
"And shine and save, thro' ages yet unborn."

On Sunday the sailors in harbor will attend a special service at Holy Trinity Cathedral and I have no doubt that they will be reminded of the fine influence their patron naval saint had upon sailors of his own day and—aye—sailors yet unborn.

And of the many prayers that will be presented none will be more appropriate than—

NELSON'S LAST PRAYER

"May the great God whom I worship grant to my country, and for the benefit of Europe in general, a great and glorious victory, and may no misconduct in any one tarnish it; and may humanity after victory be the predominant feature in the British fleet! For myself individually, I commit my life to Him who made me; and may His blessing light on my endeavors for serving my country faithfully! To Him I resign myself, and the just cause which is entrusted to me to defend. Amen!"

ENGLAND EXPECTS THAT EVERY MAN WILL DO HIS DUTY

This was the great message sent out to the famous fleet that saved Europe at Trafalgar.

It was Dean Symons of Shanghai who pointed out to me that Nelson's original message was: "Nelson Expects That Every Man Will Do His Duty" but that the signaller said that "Nelson" would require six flags but if "England" was given only one flag would be needed. Nelson at once said "Let it be 'England'" and so it was.

AND THAT REMINDS ME

Sir Haviland de Sausmarez had a great uncle on the Victory in the famous battle and Mr. Pollard, then a midshipman, was the man who picked out the sailor who gave Nelson his mortal wound, and who gave that warrior no chance to boast of his deed. Nelson's slayer was shot by Pollard, and Pollard has a peculiar interest to us locally in that he was a near ancestor to our own Dean Symons.

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS

Sir: Being a subscriber to your paper and having read with mild interest your advertisements of THE EVENING STAR, my mildness was turned to wildness on my return home only to find the free copy promised to subscribers of THE CHINA PRESS conspicuous by its not being there. Being just as mean as you are I refrained from buying copies of the journal but borrowed them from friends. I note with disgust that while we were promised Toots and Casper, nary a toot was tooted and while not a subscriber and not having as yet paid a nickel for your new yard of paper pulp would like to suggest that you don't hold out Mutt and Jeff from THE CHINA PRESS but get busy and give us Tilly the Toiler in THE EVENING STAR. Mrs. Nahaboff Replies To Ataman Semenov

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS

Sir: The Russian Echo, a Russian newspaper in Shanghai, published an interview with G. M. Semenov in which he denied all knowledge of my arrest and of the brutal ill-treatment inflicted upon me in Harbin and Chita.

I wish to state to the readers of THE CHINA PRESS that it astonished me very much to learn from Ataman Semenov, himself, that he was ignorant of the maltreatment offered to me, of my long imprisonment in Chita and of the abduction of my baby. It seems very strange indeed that one claiming to have exercised the supreme military authority during the time these acts were committed should deny knowledge of them in the face of the fact that they were a matter of common knowledge to everyone else in Siberia.

The statement of Ataman Semenov that he remained in blissful ignorance of my arrest, torture and of the abduction of my child can only be characterised as a piece of audacious impudence.

It is wondered if Ataman Semenov would also deny knowledge of the murder of the wife of General Nazvoloff in Chita, the execution of Colonel Mihailoff and his wife and of the many, many other victims, too numerous to mention, of his tyranny.

I am fully convinced that the Consular Body in Shanghai will not do me the injustice of denying me my right to proceed against Ataman Semenov in the International Mixed Court at Shanghai, and will give me an opportunity to offer competent proofs to the Court of the facts alleged in my complaint. Very respectfully yours,

MRS. A. V. NAHABOFF.

Some Interesting Information on Astronomy Given in Simple Form for Casual Readers in Answer to Correspondent's Fourteen Questions

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS
(Eminent Astronomer and Writer on Problems of Scientific Interest)

A reader comes back at me with some questions in astronomy which I posed as examples in a recent article, with the request: "Will you please answer these questions? Many I am sure will, with me, be grateful."

Here, then, are the questions, with brief answers appended:

(1) What causes the moon's changes of phase? Ans. The change in the moon's position with respect to the sun and the earth as it goes round the earth. When it is between the sun and the earth its unilluminated side is toward us, but as it gets out of line with the sun we see a little way around its sunward side, and the part that we thus catch sight of appears in the form of a crescent because of the globular shape of the moon.

When we see the moon in a direction at right angles to that of the sun half of its illuminated side is visible, and when it is opposite to the sun we see the whole of the illuminated side, and the moon is "full."

(2) At what time of the year is the earth nearest the sun? Ans. At the beginning of January.

CAUSES OF THE SEASONS

(3) To what are the seasons due? Ans. To the obliquity of the ecliptic; i.e., the inclination of the plane in which the earth revolves around the sun to the plane in which it rotates on its axis. As the earth goes round the sun it keeps its axis almost unchanged in direction, so that at one time of the year one of the earth's poles leans toward the sun, and at the opposite time of the year the same pole leans away. When the pole leans toward the sun the latter appears high in the sky and it is Summer in that hemisphere, but when the pole leans away from the sun the latter runs low in the sky and it is Winter.

(4) What are the equinoxes and the solstices? Ans. The equinoxes are the points in the sky or the times in the year where or when the sun crosses the plane of the equator as it passes from one hemisphere into the other, owing, as explained above, to the obliquity of the ecliptic. The vernal or Spring equinox occurs about March 20, and the Autumnal equinox about September 23. The solstices are the points half way between the equinoxes where the sun arrives at its greatest declination either north or south of the equator. The Summer solstice in the northern hemisphere occurs about June 21, and the Winter solstice about December 22.

(5) What is meant by an opposition of Mars? Ans. Mars is in opposition when it occupies a point in the sky opposite to that where the sun appears. The planet is then best seen.

(6) What is the name of the largest planet in the solar system? Ans. Jupiter.

THE COPERNICAN SYSTEM

(7) What is the Copernican system? Ans. The theory (established as true by observation) that the sun is the common center around which all the planets revolve.

(8) What is a comet? Ans. Comets are bodies or more probably assemblages of small bodies of slight mass, like condensed swarms of meteors, which travel around the sun, usually in very elongated orbits. Some appear to come from immense distances in space and may never visit the sun more than once.

As a comet draws nearer the sun it usually begins to display a luminous "tail." This is composed of very tenuous matter apparently driven off by electrical repulsion, or by "light pressure," emanating from the sun.

(9) At what time of the year does the full moon run highest in the sky, and why? Ans. In Winter, because the sun then runs low, and the full moon must necessarily beat at the point in the sky opposite to the sun.

(10) What is Orion? Ans. A brilliant constellation, best seen in Winter.

(11) What is Aldebaran? Ans. A bright first magnitude star in the constellation Taurus.

(12) What did Galileo do for astronomy? Ans. He invented and applied telescopes. He made with his telescopes many discoveries that confirmed the Copernican theory. His investigations on falling bodies helped prepare the way for the discovery of the law of gravitation.

WHAT KEPLER'S LAWS ARE

(13) What are Kepler's laws? Ans. 1st, That the orbits of the planets are eclipses, with the sun occupying one of the foci; 2nd, That the radius vector (line joining the planet and the sun) sweeps over equal areas in equal times; 3rd, That the squares of the periods of revolution of the planets are proportional to the cubes of their distances from the sun.

(14) State the law of gravitation. Ans. Every particle of matter in the universe attracts every other particle with a force which is proportional to the product of their masses and varies inversely with the square of the distance between them.

Provinces Line Up For The Lushan Conference

(China Press Correspondence)

Hankow, Oct. 17.—"The prospect is brightening up, and Chang Tso-ling and Tsao Kun have jointly wired me approving of the National Convention." This is the opening statement made by Chang Shao-tseng, who claims to be the author of the Lushan National Convention proposal, in an interview today at his Hankow headquarters in a leading Hankow tea hong.

"Most of the provinces of China," so continues this new champion of Wu Pei-fu's theory of Citizens' Convention as the specific remedy to China troubles, "are lining up with this new move, and as soon as arrangements are made for the consummation of the plan, I will issue invitations to the various provinces to appoint delegates for the Convention.

"Although the provinces and their governors have been slow in accepting this new idea and therefore have not taken action until now, there has been very little opposition on part of any militarist or group of militarists. This should be considered as very favorable to the plan, and I have every reason to be optimistic. The outlook is now turning even better than before, as Chang Tso-ling and Tsao Kun have come in line with us.

CANTON LEADERS AMENABLE

"Another sidelight of the hopeful outlook is the possible change of attitude of the Canton government." At this point Chang Shao-tseng paused for a while and called in his boy to fetch copies of telegrams sent out and received. Then he turned to a page containing a reply from Dr. Wu Ting-fang to Chang Shao-tseng's recent telegram to Dr. Sun Yat-sen.

"While Sun Yat-sen has not replied to my recent appeal to him, Wu Ting-fang, who is supposed to be responsible for the Canton government, has given me this reply. Wu Ting-fang charges Wu Pei-fu with having misused military power in fighting with Hunan and Szechuen, and urges me to persuade Wu Pei-fu to halt his march into Szechuen.

"Now Wu Pei-fu has no ambition of keeping the Szechuenese at bay, but he is merely clearing Hupeh province of the invading troops. And therefore I have replied to Wu Ting-fang and urged him to support the convention proposal.

GREATEST NEED IS UNITY

"I cannot see why men like Sun Yat-sen and others still persist in having a separationists' government at Canton. Sun Yat-sen has been talking so much about converging his troops on this center in his expedition against the government at Peking. This seems very unreasonable, especially at this time. China has been without unity, and indubitably she needs it today. I don't think any plan can do better than the Convention scheme which gives the real power to the people themselves.

"It is needless to point out that I have on my side about 700,000 troops, as this may terrify most people. But I do think I shall have the power to make use of that power if that is finally found necessary to remove opposition and friction and to insure the fruition of the plan.

"In the event of a final split, which will mean another civil war in China, I will make the utmost effort to fight out.

"Wu Pei-fu proposed the Convention plan last summer, but this year, in spite of all reports to the contrary, I am the proposer of the scheme of the Lushan National Convention. When Wu Pei-fu was preparing to come to Hankow to settle the fighting of the Two Hu at Loyang, I met him there and talked with him about my proposal. Being in sympathy with this idea Wu Pei-fu said he would stand with me."

WU URGING CONVENTION

(China Press Correspondence)

Hankow, Oct. 17.—A telegram was received in Hankow today from Wu Pei-fu, who is now at Ichang, stating that he is arriving at terms with Liu Hsiang, the Szechuen commander, for a peaceful conclusion of the Hupeh-Szechuen fighting. Wu Pei-fu also signifies in the wire his intention of returning to Hankow via Yochow, and expects to be here on October 20.

While in conversation with Mr. Chen Chieh, Commissioner of Foreign Affairs of Hankow, who has recently returned from Ichang, General Wu Pei-fu points out the timely need of healing China's troubles and dissensions by convocating a national conference, and according to Commissioner Chen, Wu Pei-fu is still very firm in his support of a national convention.

WANT SURPLUS TAXES USED FOR FAMINE RELIEF

(China Press Correspondence)

Peking, Oct. 17.—The Chinese Government has petitioned the diplomatic body in Peking to consider the advisability of turning over the surplus from the surtax on customs duties to a new fund for famine and flood relief. The surtax instituted for the famine relief loan continues until March, and as this money is no longer needed for the loan the Chinse officials hope that the surplus thus made available may still be used for relief work.

No action has been taken on the matter as yet but the foreign diplomats are in entire sympathy with the proposal and are considering ways and means to put the project in practice. There is still tremendous need for relief work in the stricken provinces and reports are being constantly received of the seriousness of the situation and the need for further assistance. There is consequently every reason to believe that the diplomatic body will soon take action and make the funds arising from this surtax available for relief work.

According to the best Chinese sources the first step has been taken by the Diplomatic Corps in sending to the Ministry of Foreign Affairs a note requesting a statement as to the expenditure of the money secured from the loan of last year. The receipts from the customs surtax exceeded the estimate originally made and also the amount required for the $4,000,000 loan of the consortium.

The actual receipts will probably reach $8,000,000. It is in order to utilize the funds accruing from the surtax which is still being collected that the Chinese government is negotiating with the diplomatic body, and Chinese sources emphasize the necessity of these excess sums being used for further amelioration of the results of famine and flood.
